This is passively collected, which means that it is collected without you having to do anything, using the following tracking technologies:

- Cookies
  “Cookies” are small text files that are placed on your browser, either for the duration of your website session (called “session” cookies) or more permanently (called “persistent” cookies).
Anonymous identifiers are sometimes used in place of cookies on mobile devices which may not support cookie technology. Sometimes We work with third parties who also place cookies on your device.

Because there is not yet a consensus on how companies should respond to web browser-based do-not-track (“DNT”) mechanisms, we do not respond to web browser-based DNT signals at this time. Please note that not all tracking will stop even if you delete cookies.

- Pixel Tags/Web Beacons and Web Logs
  Pixel tags, also known as web beacons, function similarly to cookies. A pixel tag is an invisible, one pixel-sized piece of code which transmits certain information to Our servers. They are placed on key pages, tools and areas of the websites and Apps. When a visitor requests/visits/clicks on anything that includes a pixel tag, the information about the visitor’s action is recorded in a web log.

- Web Analytics
  Web Analytics tracks how visitors interact with Our Online Services, including where they came from and what they did on a site. Web Analytics uses cookies and other tracking technologies to collect the following types of information about the Online Services: visits, page views, unique views, bounce rate, average time on site, language, visitor country location, browsers, operating systems, screen colors and resolutions, referring sites and top landing and exit pages.

How We use information collected through Our Online Services:

We will use this information in one or more of the following ways:

- We use IP Address information to measure site traffic, to help Us to understand how people are using Our Online Services and to improve user experience.

- We use information collected in cookies and anonymous identifiers to help recognize repeat visitors, facilitate ongoing access to some Online Services and allow Us to understand how and when pages are visited and by how many people.

- We use pixel tags and web beacons to track a visitor’s usage across Our Online Services. This information allows us to further customize your website experience.

- We use pixel tags in our HTML-based emails in order to determine if you opened and replied to or forwarded emails. This information is used in aggregate for research to improve site content and usability and may be used by Us to provide you with additional information.

- We use Web Analytics to track visitor data for the purpose of website optimization and to determine which audiences are visiting Our Online Services.

- We use information collected in cookies from Our websites to provide you with relevant advertising and product information that may be of interest after you leave Our website.

Automatic Collection: Opt-Out Choices

You may have choices about how your information is collected through tracking technologies.
For Our websites, you may opt to enable a feature on your browser that will erase cookies, block all cookies or warn you before cookies are stored or exchanged. Please be aware, however, that some parts of the websites may no longer function properly if cookies are disabled.

You may be able to disable pixel tags by changing your browser settings to omit images or through commercially available software packages.

For more information on opting out of tracking over time and across third party sites, please refer to the “Website Tracking and Online Behavioral Advertising” section of this Privacy Statement, below. For more information on your choices that are specific to mobile applications, please refer to the “Mobile Apps” section of this Privacy Statement, below.

In connection therewith, such entities may collect information about you and your usage activity on this and other websites. We do not control these third parties and are not responsible for the actions of our third party business partners. We encourage you to check their terms of use and privacy policies for such information.

SECURITY

We take reasonable measures to protect the information We process against accidental, unlawful or unauthorized destruction, loss, alteration, access, disclosure or use. Despite these efforts, however, no organization can fully eliminate risks or guarantee the security of personal information. Should We receive Personal Information from a person who We know is under 13, We will endeavor to delete such information from our database. The information will not be used for any purpose without consent of a parent or guardian. If you believe that a person under 13 has provided us with his or her Personal Information, please notify Us so that We can take reasonable steps to remove the information from Our database.

ADDITIONAL TERMS

You may be required to register with the mobile app store and be logged on before you can download or purchase an App or make an in-app purchase of another product using the App. When downloading an App, or using an App with features through your mobile platform, the app provider will typically also collect certain device and app-related information.

Some Apps may send push notifications, or notices of interest sent out in the absence of a specific request, to your mobile device. If you decline to accept push notifications, you may not receive the most current updates and features of the App.

You have choices when it comes to how Apps function on your mobile device. You may be able to:

You can opt-out of that tracking by going to the Network Advertising Initiative’s (NAI) website and opting out of tracking by advertising networks, which may include, but not be limited to Google DoubleClick, AdRoll, and BrightRoll. The NAI’s website can be found here. Please understand that if you decide to opt out, you will still receive advertising online, but it may not be relevant to your interests or targeted based on your internet browsing activity.
